Today's telecommunications is a world without boundaries, with Ericsson as an important global player. It is world we aim to symbolize with this unique crystal globe. The globe and the bubbles symbolize the universe and us people, countries, cultures and how dependent we are of communication and good relationships. The silver symbolizes the method and energy of our communications.

The clear crystal represents the infinity in which we exist. It is not difficult to sketch out an idea to show how the globe should appear and what it is to symbolize but making it requires glassblowing skills based on generations of experience and great creativity. Consider the globe as the transparent world of telecommunications in which Ericsson is growing through new ideas and companies.
